

A MARINE APPROACH TO INTRODUCTORY BIOLOGY

JUNE 29 – JULY 27, 2009

BIOSM 1110: 8 college credits (great for pre-Fresh/HS students!)

PREREQUISITES: Permission of the instructors

(Questions? For help contact Robin Hadlock Seeley at: 607.255.3717)

FACULTY:

Dr. J.B. Heiser, Cornell University / SML Director Emeritus

Dr. Denny Taylor, Hiram College

Dr. Willy Bemis, Cornell University / Current SML Director

Steve McMurray, University of North Carolina Wilmington

Ryan King, Masconomet Regional School District, MA

Rachel Fineman, St. Mark's School of Texas, Dallas, TX

COURSE DESCRIPTION: (also see: http://www.sml.cornell.edu/sml\_cc\_introbio.html)

Outdoor adventure is a fundamental part of every day! A Marine Approach to Introductory Biology includes intensive lecture, lab and field experiences in an extremely supportive learning environment that emphasizes skill building, project design, and close collaboration with faculty and peers.

Photos by Jason Koski, Cornell University
Photography; and Steve McMurray © 2008

CONTACT: shoals-lab@cornell.edu

www.sml.cornell.edu

Cornell University

UNIVERSITY of NEW HAMPSHIRE